The A3 thinking is a proven and powerful approach used by Toyota and many other companies. Policy deployment enables the organization to focus on the right things to get them done. When applied to policy deployment, A3 thinking engages the organization in reflecting on past results and activities to establish a focused and effective annual plan.

Course Objectives

Using practical case studies, real life experience and active participation, the workshop presents the policy deployment structure and day to day utilization. The A3 thinking and supportive management system are presented as an effective solution to maintain a constant focus on the annual plan, identify gaps between plan and actual and generate corrective actions.
