

Benefit by Facilitating a Peer Group

“Facilitating the Senior Operations Peer Group provides me an opportunity to get to know other Executives and see first hand how they are solving problems. It also allows me to gain valuable insight into how these leaders are dealing with many of the same complex business issues I am.”

Dave Deal
VP Operations

Facilitating a Manufacturers Alliance peer group can be a rewarding experience for many reasons including: making lasting professional connections, learning how to guide others in identifying, discussing and solving problems, as well as participating in benchmarking tours with peers.

Manufacturers Alliance peer groups consist of Managers, Directors, and Executives from local manufacturing companies. If you want to look beyond your four walls for best practices and gain from a trusted network of peers, facilitate a Manufacturers Alliance peer group.
