

Learning to See Waste

An experiential workshop in the Continuous Improvement Series.

Your instructor:

Tammi Dorion has over 15 years of Manufacturing Leadership and Continuous Improvement experience. Her passion is to help companies integrate continuous improvement practices into their everyday lives.

For many, the first step in creating a culture of continuous improvement and developing an army of problem solvers is to help all employees identify opportunities for improvement. Help a critical mass of employees learn how to define value and identify and eliminate waste.

In this workshop attendees will:

- Learn a simple way to remember the common forms of waste
- Practice identifying waste in manufacturing
- Learn practical brainstorming techniques
- Learn how to prioritize opportunities for improvement
