TYPICAL CHALLENGES

- Developing production plans that balance capacity to customer demands
- Dealing with uncertainty of forecasts and scheduling requirements
- Maintaining data integrity for accurate BOMs, routers & work instructions
- Incorporating information technology into job planning & execution
- Determining the best metrics to capture performance and show progress
- Making time to work on other important but not urgent challenges

“The rubber meets the road in manufacturing with production management. Internal and external resources come together in dynamic conditions to get the right product out the door at the right time. It’s not easy but the insights from peers facing similar challenges is invaluable.”

- Jim. D., CPIM
