TYPICAL CHALLENGES

- Focusing efforts on problem prevention to reduce need of problem solving
- Developing corrective action responses and applying root cause analysis
- Measuring process capability to continuously improve processes
- Assessing supplier quality and working to improve quality at the source
- Creating teams of problem solvers applying valid and appropriate tools
- Determining the best quality metrics and measures
- Dealing with quality, safety, cultural, and diversity challenges

I regularly take pictures and notes from our meetings and tours and bring them back to our shop supervisors and management team so they too can benefit from what I learned. It's fascinating to see how others resolve similar issues." - Dan W., Quality Manager
