

Leaders Standard Work

Offered as part of the Lean Leader Certification

Your instructor:

Leigh Erickson is the Site Leader (Integrated Supply Chain Director) for the Honeywell Plymouth facility. He brings more than 15 years of experience in Lean systems. He has been part of implementing Lean within Operations and supporting ISC functions like Planning, HR, Finance, etc. Leigh's focus is to integrate people focused elements into Lean systems to create positive, sustainable improvement cultures.

"Leaders Standard Work was one of the best, if not THE best workshop I have ever attended. Thank you for your insight and energy. I'm inspired to push my team to the next level!"

*Greg Wesling, Plant Manager
Proto Labs Inc.*

The new production system that companies create during their Lean journey requires a new way of managing the operation: a Lean management system. Standard work for leaders is the engine that drives the lean management system and is crucial to any successful lean implementation. Learn how to implement the daily practices of managers that are necessary to provide a cultural support system for your lean journey.

Key Learning Objectives:

Gain an understanding of the lean management system and its elements. Learn how to develop leaders standard work appropriate for all levels of the organization. Ensure the standard work is followed and generates results as well as continuous improvement.

- ◆ Who should have it
- ◆ What it should cover
- ◆ Pros and cons of different formats
- ◆ How to ensure it is followed every day

Who Should Attend: Executives, operations managers and supervisors, Lean practitioners and production support managers who are responsible for driving and sustaining continuous improvement.
